Experience

Steven Tseng is the Partner-in-Charge of Global Transfer Pricing Services (GTPS) for KPMG in China. He leads over 200 full-time transfer pricing specialists in Greater China and 450 in the Asia Pacific region. With over 15 years of transfer pricing experience, including five years in China, he actively contributes to the transfer pricing community by providing training to tax officials, leading advance pricing agreement (APA) negotiations, and resolving taxpayer disputes. He is also a frequent public speaker and contributor of articles on transfer pricing, valuations and globalisation.

He has served as the lead partner for several hundred global transfer pricing, business transformation, valuations and post merger integration projects around the world, and has led several APA and bilateral APA projects involving China, the US, Japan, Singapore and several European countries.

Steven is an active member of the American Chamber of Commerce in Shanghai, acting both as co-chair of the tax committee and a member of its 2009 delegation to the U.S. Congress in Washington, D.C. Since 2003, Steven has conducted frequent technical trainings for the Chinese tax authorities on transfer pricing.

Prior to KPMG in China, Steven was the Partner-in-Charge of Financial Advisory Services for KPMG in Finland and a member of its Executive Board. Before KPMG, Steven worked for the Federal Reserve Board (DC), PricewaterhouseCoopers (DC, Tokyo, Boston), and Goldman Sachs (New York).

Steven's clients cover almost all industries including energy, financial services, telecommunications, chemicals, electronics, machinery, consumer goods and non-profitable associations. International Tax Review has recommended Steven as a leading Transfer Pricing advisor in China.
